A strong mandate to invest in our future

Since the awards' inception, Teachers Life has invested more than $450,000 in the futures of young family members of our policyholders.

"We are a life insurance company unlike any other in Canada," said Teachers Life President and CEO Doug Baker. "We were founded by educators for their unique life insurance needs, and we remain grounded in that community. It's because of our policyholders that we have such a strong mandate to do more than just sell life insurance."

Teachers Life is dedicated to those who work in education and the important work they do in our communities each and every day. "Through education, the youth of today will become the strong, engaged citizens of tomorrow," Baker added. These awards are a flagship program of Teachers Life's fraternal, not-for-profit mandate.

Our whole community, succeeding together

With a greater number of applicants this year, the Scholarship and Bursary Selection Committee had a challenging job. "All of the applicants were so inspiring," enthused Bob Bradey, Committee Member, "it was a difficult decision."

Winners stood out for overall excellence in their achievements. They were all so clearly dedicated to their education, their families and the communities they live in. "The winners really do embody Teachers Life's vision of our whole community, succeeding together," concluded Bradey.

Teachers Life congratulates all of the applicants, their families and especially the winners of the 2016 awards.
